STONE ISLAND | NEW BALANCE
SUMMER_'026 CAPSULE

June 3rd, 2026 - Stone Island and New Balance present the latest evolution of their long-term collaborative relationship with a dedicated on and off pitch capsule collection. Rooted in a shared approach to material research and performance-driven design, the release revisits the world of football by bringing together footwear, apparel, accessories, kit, and equipment for on and off the pitch.

The collection draws on elements of 1990s football culture, translated into a contemporary context through material treatment and graphic development. Stone Island's approach to material research is combined with New Balance's on-pitch expertise in a capsule defined by a consistent visual language and a palette informed by natural landscapes and archival references.

The on-pitch offering, as anticipated, pairs two complementary approaches to performance. The Furon Elite FG v9 is designed for speed, with a one-piece mesh upper and lightweight outsole, featuring a heat-reactive artwork that changes with temperature, drawing on Stone Island's ongoing exploration of material transformation.

The Tekela Elite Low FG v5 focuses on control, with a structured upper incorporating grip elements and an anatomical construction for added stability and touch in play. Faded perimeter studs are achieved through semi-transparent green injection, combined with a navy back paint, while the heel features a chrome-like finish on the turf-facing side.

The two football boot models are complemented by the previously introduced on-pitch capsule, which comprises the Football Kit, which includes a jersey and shorts developed in engineered jacquard, carrying a bespoke artwork that combines the Stone Island Compass, New Balance logo and two-stripe motif. Both pieces carry flock-applied branding, while the socks incorporate open mesh knit zones and embroidered logos. The offering is completed by the Pro Football, constructed with 32 thermally bonded panels to ensure true flight and minimal water uptake, with a micro-textured surface for flight and surface glide.

The off-pitch offering opens with the STONE ISLAND | NEW BALANCE ABZORB 1890 trainer, blending heritage references with an innovative design language. The model uses the original 2002 sole unit, featuring full-length SBS ABZORB cushioning to ensure comfort without compromising the overall form of the shoe. The upper pairs micro mesh with no-sew synthetic overlays, creating a wave cutout construction, with a high-frequency welded reflective "teardrop" at the toe.

The release also includes a range of apparel and accessories defined by treated surfaces and functional construction. Outerwear centres on the Nylon Prismatico-TC hooded jacket, inspired by the iconic Mussola Prismatica, constructed from a lightweight nylon tela bonded to a finely grooved polyurethane film that creates a liquid, three-dimensional appearance. The same fabric extends to the matching training bag with adjustable shoulder strap and drawstring closure.
The reversible track jacket and trousers in bi-colour resin-coated cotton ripstop – featuring the Stone Island compass and 'NB' logo - introduce adaptability, while the cotton jersey and fleece sweatshirt, shorts and T-shirt are garment-dyed to achieve tonal variation across lighter categories, available in both juniper green and ivory white, recurring throughout the capsule.

In the campaign, professional footballers Endrick and Bukayo Saka wear the collaborative capsule during a training session that moves across multiple football pitches between Lyon and London, captured through the unmistakable lens of photographer and director Bolade Banjo.

STONE ISLAND | NEW BALANCE SUMMER_'026 CAPSULE will be available from June 4 in selected Stone Island stores and online at stoneisland.com. In Japan, the collection will be available from June 17th.
