8-MONCLER RICHARD QUINN

Richard Quinn is the bearer of a no-holds-barred, glamorously feisty, gloriously embellished vision that's energetic and fearless. Whilst surfaces swarm in bold prints, precious embroideries and bejewelled details, shapes are svelte, with a hint of ladylike, but all of it is done with the technicality and performance of Moncler. The collection is very graphic in terms of silhouette: short and sharp trapeze dresses and demure coats with bejewelled buttons pay non nostalgic homage to the elegance of the Sixties. As ever for Richard Quinn, bold prints are pivotal: as much as twelve different patterns, all new and all exclusive, have been created for this Moncler Genius collection from flowers to zebra motifs, from rainbows to checks. These are splashed onto minidresses and coats, windbreakers and leggings, mixed and matched together for maximum effect. Materials include nylon laqué, resin coated gaberdine for a stiff shape, duchesse, and technical nylon twill. Feathered balaclavas, embellished pumps, down-filled high-heeled boots complete the image, together with totes and sfera bags. A capsule of embroidered couture gowns with full opera skirts brings the maximalist ante to the max.
